CONTENTS

The Anglican Training Institute (ATI) prepares and equips Christians for ministry in a manner that reflects the wholeness of our faith. Students at ATI are taught to devote themselves to the living Word, the Bible. They are also given opportunities to experience the power of the Holy Spirit in their lives and ministries, and learn how to help others to experience the same. Furthermore, they are to study theological principles and practices which help them to understand the unchanging nature of our Heavenly Father as well as His awesome majesty.

Luke 10:38-42 tells the story of Martha and Mary. Martha was so caught up with "much serving" that she did not feel able to sit at the feet of Jesus and listen to His teaching, as her sister Mary did. Similarly, there are many faithful believers today, including full-time workers, who are serving God so enthusiastically that they do not see how they can integrate theological and practical training into their very busy lives. This is where ATI model is uniquely suited to those who wish to be trained and equipped yet want to continue to be actively engaged in their respective ministries. By taking modular classes and working on coursework, ATI students are able to integrate ongoing ministry with rigorous study and training. Thus, they are able to take time to, as it were, sit at the feet of Jesus and learn from Him, then return to their respective contexts inspired, illuminated and better-equipped for effective service to our Lord.

I would like to encourage Christians who are mature and desire to serve God to consider enrolling yourself as a student of ATI. To God be the glory!

MESSAGE FROM THE BISHOP

The Most Revd Datuk Melter Jiki Tais

MESSAGE FROM

THE CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD

Dr James Ku Fon-Kiew

In every sphere of life, be it in Church or the secular world, the importance of proper training is of utmost importance. The Anglican Training Institute (ATI) exists for the purpose of delivering an integrated training for workers of our Anglican Diocese of Sabah, for mission, and for vocational upgrade. To date, ATI had provided a balanced theological and practical training for many of our younger clergy and church workers who are now in active service.

We live in a digital age where there is an overload of information readily available between the palms of our hand. Living as believers in this new era requires great discipline, wisdom, and discernment. This is all the more so for full time ministry workers who need to lead their congregations based on a firm biblical foundation.

In view of that, ATI has launched two new programmes – Master of Divinity and Advanced Master of Divinity – to promote continuous development and empowerment of workers to widen and update knowledge, upgrade skills, improve understanding and to apply them with confidence and creativity in various roles and environment. In other words, we need to be lifelong learners.

Paul in his exhortation to Timothy says: "Do your best to present yourself to God as one approved, a worker who does not need to be ashamed and who correctly handles the word of truth." 2 Timothy 2:15

In a nutshell, the objectives of ATI are to train workers who can discern and are equipped to faithfully handle the 'Word of Truth' correctly so that God's people are not led astray by all sorts of heresies. They are also equipped with skills vital in ministry through the 'ministry' modules and on-the-job training.

May the Lord bless you as you embark upon your studies.

The year 2023 marks the tenth year since the opening of the Anglican Training Institute (ATI). As founding principal, I am grateful for the development of ATI in the past ten years. By God's grace, hundreds of students from various denominations and places have graduated. They are now in active ministry and leadership positions. Our programmes have been accredited and proven to be versatile in the face of various challenges. Students are trained not only to cope with the current ministry needs but also future missional demands.

In the next ten years, we will ensure that more followers of Christ are given the opportunity to theological education, while those who wish to further their theological learning are not neglected. There will be deliberate efforts to make theological education available for everyone, and at the same time, purposeful development of postgraduate programmes and partnership with other institutions of higher education locally and from abroad.

ATI is committed to provide quality academic programmes while determined to ensure that our programmes (especially the Certificate of Theology and the first year of the Master of Divinity) remain focused on practical ministries. No believer should find our entry programmes beyond their ability while no graduate of our third- or fourth-year programmes should find themselves having studied any less than those who graduated from other renowned universities or colleges around the world.

For these reasons, I invite you to join us as we embark into a journey of lifelong learning, for to know our Lord better would enable us to serve Him more faithfully!

MESSAGE FROM THE PRINCIPAL

The Revd Canon Dr Lin Khee-Vun

ATI
at a glance

The Anglican Training Institute (ATI) has now grown to become a recognised institute in the Anglican community, both locally and overseas.
ATI combines theological education with spiritual development and ministry skills, rooted in the Sabah Anglican ethos.

From a humble beginning of 69 students, ATI (formerly known as the School of Ministry and Mission) was founded in 2012 with a potent partnership with the Department of External Studies of Moore Theological College, Australia. Since its inception, ATI has attracted a broad array of students from all over the diocese. ATI continues to grow; expanding the theological and spiritual horizons of its students, enriching their ministry with practical skills that deepen and nurture their walk with Christ and inspires them to look outward to the needs of the world.

Governed by the ATI Board and supported by various sub-committees including the Curriculum Review Committee, ATI strive to promote life-long learning and continuous equipping in our fast-changing world. Our curriculum does not spoon-feed the students but pushes them to think critically, from a Christian worldview perspective. Modules offered in the three programmes - Certificate of Theology (CTh), Diploma of Theology (DipTh) and Bachelor of Theology (BTh) - are well thought-out and always evolving to integrate current issues, challenges, and recent developments of interest. In addition, the CTh, DipTh and BTh programmes are accredited by the Asia Theological Association (ATA). This puts us on par with numerous established seminaries and opens the doors to further studies in other accredited institutes of higher learning.

After running the new curriculum for a few cycles, the faculty and students have adapted well to the credit hour system, varied assessments, and standardised grading system. With the improved curriculum, ATI also opened its doors to church members who seek personal enrichment. Members are invited to register and enrol in modules which they are interested in, either through auditing (non-credit) or by earning credit towards the certification of the CTh, through the newly launched Anglican Training Institute Extension (ATI-E) Programme.

All in all, ATI aims to instil the vision of the diocese, a sense of unity and belonging, and a basic ministry philosophy which would be shared by the whole diocese at the foundational level of the theological training of potential pastors and clergy. While academic excellence is pursued and maintained, the methodology employed consists of elements which enable the training of skills and character. Thus, ATI aims to strike a balance in both theology and practical training of our students, ensuring that they will graduate and enter ministry with confidence.
